CHARTERS TOWERS

Sometimes known as the "GOLD CITY" or as above "THE WORLD" as during its heyday, the 1880-1890 gold rush, it was said the town had everything you needed or ever wanted. The town was founded in 1871, when a group of 4 prospectors passing through lost their horses in a storm & while searching, Jupiter Mosman, a 12yr old Aboriginal boy in the group, found a golden nugget in a creek. The town still produces gold today & retains a lot of its original buildings.

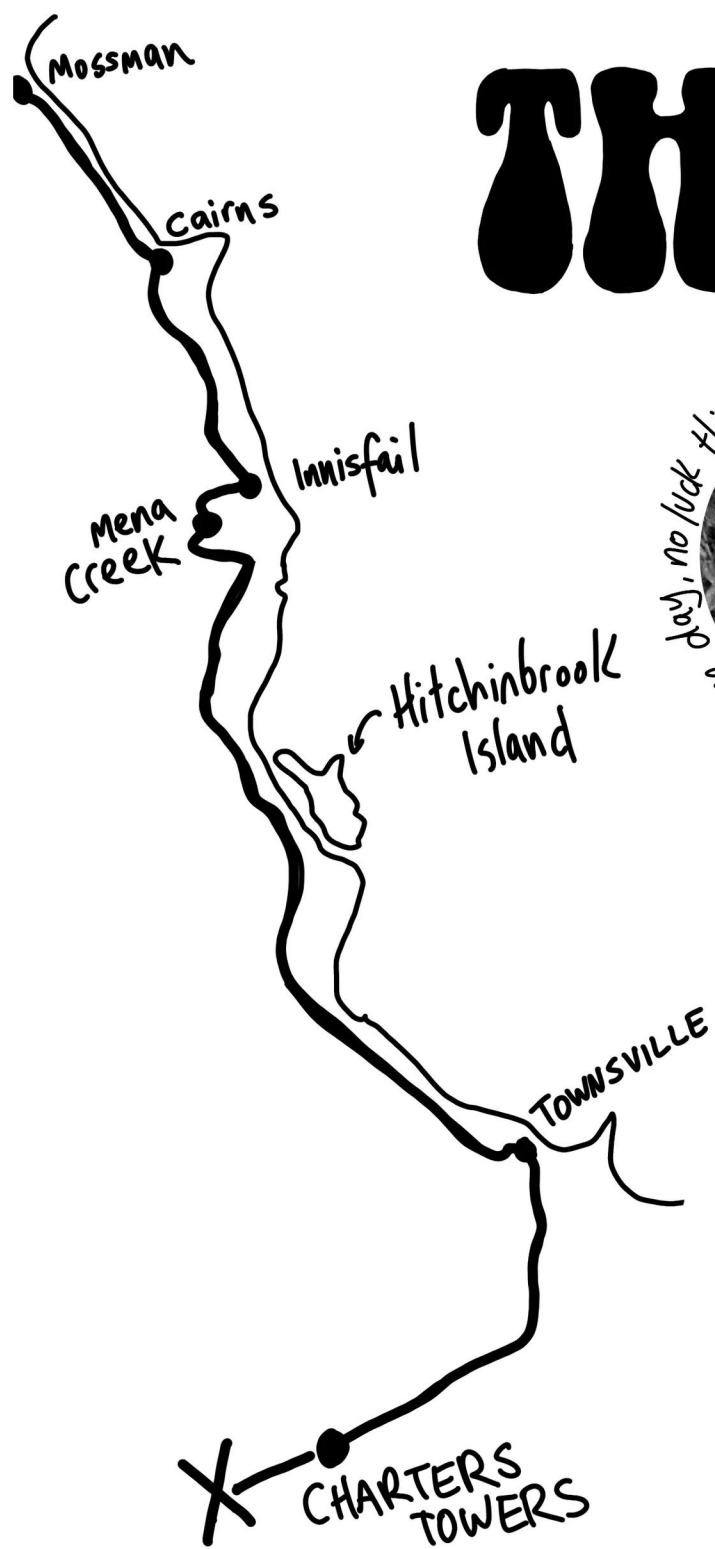

Welcome,

With a road block WEST
I headed EAST & up the COAST to FNQ to see an old friend. I did have an idea to do the Cape but that was out the window, a cyclone had just hit & the DAINTREE ferry was out of action.

TREVOR

It had been a long time since I had seen TREVOR, I had met him in Darwin, a big fan of his rubbish sculptures, even making a little DOCO on him. He had left DARWIN & made his way to FAR NORTH QUEENSLAND, trying to shake the "RUBBISH WARRIOR" tag, living in an old pub and studying. Trevor remains his old self, making the odd sculpture & never far from his next controversy. When I arrived he had just been banned from the local library.

INNISFRIL

In 1918 the town was destroyed by a Cyclone & a lot of the town was rebuilt using reinforced concrete in the popular architecture of the time, ART DECO. Its really a beautiful little town, like most of FNQ its main industry is Sugar Cane & Bananas. I remember as a teenager when cyclone Larry hit the area & Bananas around Australia became very expensive & a rare treat.

MOSSMAN

Named after Hugh Mosman, one of the founders of CHARTERS TOWERS. The town used to be home to the northernmost sugar mill in AUSTRALIA until it closed in 2023 after 127 yrs in operation. The nearby PORT DOUGLAS is known for its high end resorts & celebrity appeal, the likes of George Clooney + Brad Pitt have visited, Bill Clinton was here when we learned of the 9/11 attacks. Apparently the local Mossman kids rite of passage is to sneak into the resort & jump in to the swimming pool.

CHIP

The exact moment it hit sounded bad, a road train just passed swerving into the gravel as it did. A small chip up high, I bought a kit & it seemed to work. I'll keep an eye on it & fingers crossed it doesn't spread & get bigger.
