AVON DOWNS

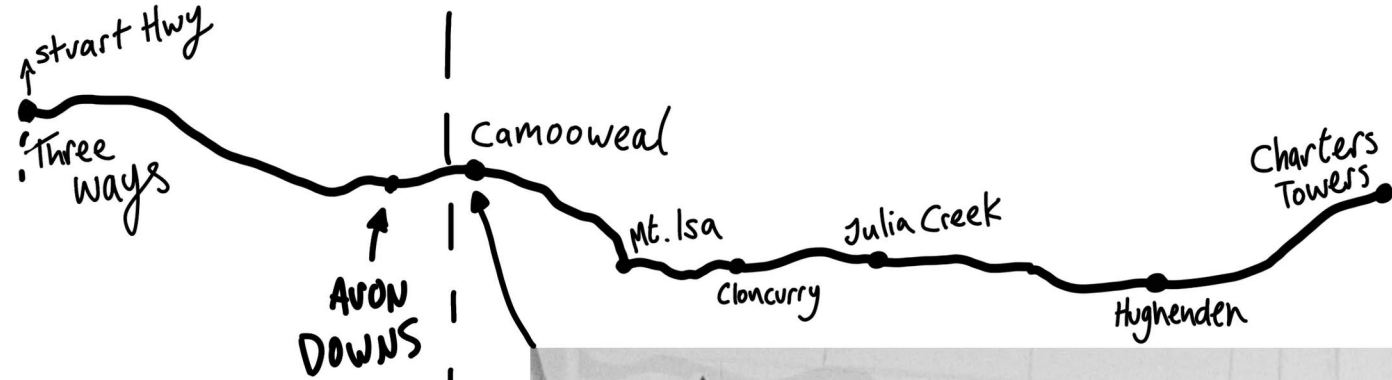

After crossing the QLD → N.T border about 50km into the N.T you come across the first signs of life. Avon Downs Police station, one of the most remote Police Stations in Australia. The isolation of the BARKLY TABLELANDS led to it being a hotspot for horse thieves & Cattle Dusters, a police presence has been in place since the late 1950's with the current complex built in the 1980s. On my way through I saw the police & Ambulance at Barkly Homestead & only as of writing it has come out that a likely murder has occurred in this region, the partner of a woman called police claiming a Kangaroo strike had resulted in her death but as of writing the man has been charged with her death!

Welcome,

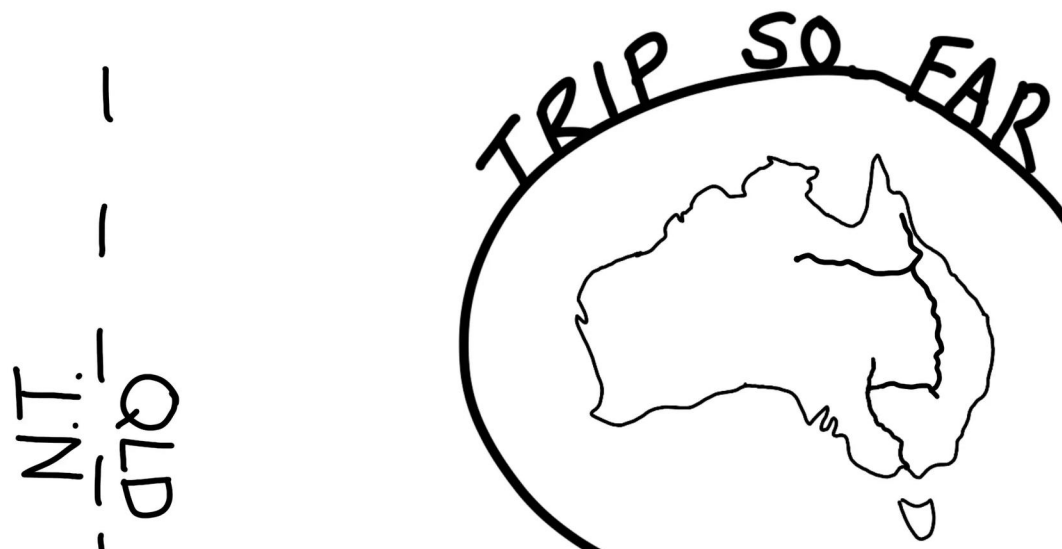

It was time to go WEST, I would visit some old places I had rode through on my cycle from DARWIN → MELBOURNE, I was excited to reach the Stuart Hwy & head up to DARWIN. It was good to enter the territory & change time zones for the last time in a while.

THE MAP

A cheeky sign at the servo in Camooweal.

I was approaching the landscape I had ridden through on my cycle from DARWIN → Melbourne in 2021. I met LIAM at a stop, he was attempting to ride to all the F1 cities in the world under the name Tourmula 1. It was great to share advice & stories from a fellow cyclist. In many ways maybe I should have got on my bike for this trip especially with the current DIESEL PRICES!

DINOSAURS

I wasn't expecting to see dinosaurs in outback QLD but ~145 million yrs ago a large part of inland Australia was an ocean. When it slowly dried up it left behind many fossils of various types of dinosaurs. The first was discovered in 1932 but it wasn't until 1989 when 2 almost complete skeletons were found on cattle stations, the above museum was created.

CAUTION

I was a little worried when I saw the road condition was CAUTION from CLONCURRY → Camooweal. On looking it up online, it was because of "Vegetation" which just confused me. For most of this trip I've been travelling through outback towns who have recently had huge rainfalls, the normal red scrub replaced by greenery. Even via Satellite you can see this change. BTW: Road was fine.
